STOKES' WITNESS ADMITS LIES

NEGRO MAID CONFESSES TESTIMONY IS FALSE

Tells of Seeing Mrs. Stokes in "Love Nest" in Scanty Attire

New York, Oct. 9 (U.S.N.S.).—A throng of sensation-seekers that crowded Justice Mahoney's courtroom today in anticipation of hearing "spicy" testimony in the divorce suit of W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire clubman, against his wife, Helen Elwood Stokes, had their expectations justified.

IN SILK UNDES

"Each time she wore only a silk undergarment—a very thin one, too," she added.

The woman's testimony started a

STOKES AND WIFE FACE TO FACE IN COURT

VIVID MRS. STOKES

Mrs. Stokes wears a tailored blue suit in court. Because no other color could bring out so perfectly the gorgeous bronze-red of her hair. The little blue hat she wears probably cost as much as a set of tires for a Rolls-Royce. Occasionally Mr. Stokes glances at her, but she returns the gaze with interest and forces her husband to drop his eyes. Inset, Edgar T. Wallace, named by Stokes.

DANDY MR. STOKES

Mr. Stokes appeared in court looking as jaunty as he did in the old days when he was the pleasure leader of the fashionable horse-racing set of the Harlem Speedway. He looks much younger than his seventy years. He wore a short brown overcoat of dapper cut and presented the air of the racing dandy of 1888.

BIG LOSSES LED SWIFT TO SUICIDE

Brother Helps Clean Up Mystery; Contractor Had $125,000 Insurance

Francis H. Swift, prominent contractor, who committed suicide in his warehouse in Roxbury, had a $125,000 insurance policy totalling more than $125,000.

The head of the Swift-McNulty Company, building contractor, had one policy for $125,000 in a New York broker's company, and most in number.

The first policy he now has a year old and, under the law of New York, is incontestable.

Positive identification of the body was made by Henry Swift, brother of the deceased, who also testified that his brother's handwriting is quite found with the bill he said himself as well as business dealings had unbalanced in his mind.

Medical Examiner Timothy Laffey was unable to determine if signs found on the body contained any. He said he was aided by a team of outside experts, but still was unable to make his report until the autopsy is completed.

A corporation in which Swift was heavily interested recently was sold of the Blue Sky Law and was stopped from floating a huge stock sale.

It was the Black Corporation, makers of electric kitchens and coal stoves for hotels, factories, hospitals and other large buildings. The company was sold to Brockton, Mass., at present provided over by a line of stock.

Recently the company endeavored to sell 20,000 shares of stock through a New York broker. The stock was to sell for $14 per share. The broker was to be paid $1 for every share sold.

This aroused the suspicion of the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities. The sale was arrested and an investigation started. A hearing, sought by the corporation, is slated for Thursday.

COOLIDGE PASSES HUGHES PLAN ALONG TO EUROPE

Washington, Oct. 9 (U.S.N.S.).—The Coolidge administration will make no further advances in allied powers for approval of the Hughes plan for a conference of economic experts to determine Germany's ability to pay reparations. It was announced at the White House today.

DENTIST AND WIFE IN COURT; ASSAULT CHARGES ARE FILED

Judge Peckham in Roxbury court today placed on file the cases of Dr. Walter E. Farris, Roxbury street dentist, and his wife Catherine, who charged mutual assault in their divorce suit.

Farris, 34, is charged with assault on his wife, Catherine, 31, at 140th street, Jamaica Plain, on the night of August 14th.

A charge of non-support brought by Mrs. Farris was held for detention.

FEAR PRISONER AT ISLAND IS SUICIDE

Dear Mother: Something has happened in my life which will prevent me from ever seeing you again," Charles Sutton, Deer Island prisoner, wrote to his mother in Germany, then, it is believed, drowned himself in Boston Harbor.

Charles Sutton, 24, had been in the hospital since last March when he was stricken with scarlet fever. He disappeared last Saturday and has not been seen since.

He was sentenced to Deer Island on March 13 for a year. He was a drug addict. Previously he had been a sailor. He was but 24 years old.

PROVIDENCE FIRE SPREADS

Providence, Oct. 9.—The docks at the Capital-Lumber Co. took fire and endangered the hands at test of the city today. Two men, the McGill and the Taylor, also were damaged. They took fire when they were nailed close to burning docks attempting to extricate vessels tied up there. One fireman was injured. All volunteer fire companies within a radius of 20 miles and as far away as Oakland Beach were summoned to act as a reserve force. The huge structure which houses the Nottingham Mills took fire several times.

NEGRO MAN'S WEARS SHE

WITNESS FORCED TO ADMIT FALSE TESTIMONY

during the war, didn't you?" he asked.

"Yes, he was," she answered.

"Did you marry another man after your husband went to France?"

"Yes," admitted the woman, in spite of Stokes' warnings.

LAWYERS WROGGLE

Then, however, Stokes and the witness all joined in a heated squabble which, despite protests from the bench, went on unchecked for five minutes, to the keen enjoyment of the "divorce fans" in the courtroom.

Stokes and his wife, who faced each other, sitting about ten feet apart, were interested spectators of the row. Stokes held two heavy brief cases in his knees. These contain the 25,000 pages of "evidence" upon which he hoped to prove his wife unfaithful to him.

Mrs. Stokes, thin-haired and pretty, was dressed in a tailored blue suit and gray fur.

The witness admitted she had lived under four different names, including that of Nellie Murphy, using the name of Murphy, she was the name of a man who had promised to marry her, she was unable to remember the dates of her previous marriages.

There she declared positively that she had been married to Murphy in City Hall, New York, four years later, she retracted this statement but denied vehemently that she had told an untruth under oath.

ADMIT PERJURY

When Mr. Undermyer explained the situation to her, she admitted she had deliberately testified falsely.

'Who's Who' in the Stokes Fight for Divorce

WILLIAM EARL DODGE STOKES

—Thirty-three-year-old millionaire hotel and real estate owner, married twice; divorced by a court order; charged with perjury in support of child; shot by two women in apartment; has been attacking the character of his wife for nearly six years.

MRS. ELLA LUDWIG STOKES

—Thirty-three, pretty former University student; first bearing up under the onslaught of her husband's vituperation "for my child's sake"; she answered.

"Do you not know," asked Mr. Undermyer, "that you have deliberately committed perjury?"

"No," was the answer.

WEDDIE STOKES

—Twenty-three, handsome son of Stokes and Mrs. Ella Ludwig, his first child; alleged to have been friendly with his stepmother.

JAMES AND MURIEL STOKES

—Nine and seven, respectively; children of Mr. and Mrs. Stokes.

GEORGE SCHROEDER

—Accused of misconduct with Mrs. Stokes.

JOHN L. BRANDER

—Accused of misconduct with Mrs. Stokes.

EDWARD T. WALLACE

—Mining engineer; leader of the correspondence named by Stokes.

JACK DE SAILLES

—Shot and killed by his beautiful Chinese wife several years ago; one of a number of persons whom Stokes attempted to connect with Mrs. Stokes.

MRS. RITA LUDWIG

—Prominent actress; first wife of Stokes; killed in the recent shooting; Stokes had frequently beaten her, reflecting rage.

HAL HILLMAN

—Handsome young man; her from the tea-room where he worked.

Mrs. Stokes Vivid in Court: Stokes Like the Dandy of '08

New York, Oct. 8.—The defendant in the Stokes case looked up the dandy and comely old courtroom. He was vivid as the Van de Stuyvesant. Mr. Undermyer went in his high-backed, a number of which he distributed to the newspaper men.

Mrs. Stokes was blue, because no other color could bring out so perfectly the evidence offered and at no time did her color brighten, and at only one time did her smile disappear.

GLADYS STOKES DOWN

Once Mrs. Stokes, white-haired, heavy-lidded and grim of aspect, glanced at her and caught her eye. Then the smile dropped from her lips and she glared at Mrs. Stokes down held his eyes for a full second upon the head and shoulders of the woman who had been the first to sign the papers in the divorce.

Over a million dollars is involved in this suit, one way or another, and it was evident that Mrs. W. B. D. Stokes was there to fight for her end of the purse.

One before she was in a similar action, but after Mrs. Stokes had been denied his divorce and Mrs. Stokes had been granted retention, Mrs. Stokes had been granted retention, Mrs. Stokes had been granted retention, Mrs. Stokes had been granted retention.

Like the Days of 1898.

Mr. Stokes, married 70 years, four times married and engaged in one of the most important cases of litigation in which he has ever been involved, has lost none of that jaunty look that marked him when he was one of the picturesque of the old drivers of high speed trotters on the old Harlem roadway. He was a short, broad, somewhat portly man, but he was not portly in the sort that Barry Wall made popular in the years just preceding the Spanish-American war.

In every respect Mr. Stokes suggested that period and brought to mind vivid recollections of the old days when DeMunnings, at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, was the center of all New York that was worth while and Morris Park at its height.

Mrs. Stokes suggested an evening at the Ziegfeld Palace in late current year 1922.

Mr. Stokes will start at first base for the Yankees, then he will play for the Yankees, then he will play for the Yankees, then he will play for the Yankees.

VERY LIKELY, for hard facts of science are taught in a way that crowd out belief in miracles. It must be remembered, however, that boys in their teens do not exactly believe in Christianity, and nearly all of them have lost their faith, on leaving college, we are teaching Christianity in the wrong way.

IT TAKES LONG, mental medicine to plant religious belief in a young mind, beyond all possibility of uprooting. A man, known all over the country, said at the recent Lloyd George luncheon: "Only the Catholic Church stands between property and Red radical confiscation. The Protestant Church, lost its power when it started teaching that there is an actual blessing hell. Men need to be frightened."

THE GENTLEMAN is a good Protestant, and goes through all the usual motions, but he is discouraged. It is true that fear of hell-fire will keep men honest, that, said. But is it not? The American Federation of Labor, which is non-sectarian, comes out strongly and officially against Communism, confiscation of property and other extreme radicalism. High wages enable men to acquire property, and with men owns something, he at least is not a pan for dividing every. Capital will learn, perhaps, that it may lose in making the little man a little property owner. A house paid for, and a savings bank account will inspire more conservatism than any fear of hell.

THE BOLSHEVIST government pays a substantial subsidy on every yard of cotton goods exported to Persia. The idea is to build up industry, and take world markets from England. It may not be as dreamy and impractical as it pleases us to imagine her. Even our own people, always letting grow to do "their own worrying," might learn something from despised Bolshevism.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., tells the world her laws are made to be enforced. How long do you suppose the Volstead law would last if it were not only possible, but extremely easy for the "batter class" to get what they want?

MUSGOLLIN, HAVING made the League of Nations ridiculous ("Much obliged to you for this," says the Sam) plans to prove himself a good broom. He will devote money and labor to reclaiming the bad lands of Italy, increasing productive acreage. About 300,000 acres of land, hitherto waste, have already been put under cultivation. An example to the United States, with its disease-breeding, climate-destroying swamps and deserts.

WHEN OLD GERMANY finished the building of the Zepplin, ordered by this country, the great Zepplin plant must be dismantled and destroyed. Such was the plea of France. A plant that the world needs, for its progress, is to be made a junk pile, because it might make machines for it. It is natural for France to maintain her dictatorship in Europe and protect herself against enemies while she can. But could not France herself turn that factory and sell the plant to

Elsie Nichols Bride Today of Charles Cobb, Jr., Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

NEW Vincent Club girls will fail to attend the wedding of Miss Elsie Nichols and Charles Kane Cobb, Jr., the ceremony taking place at 2:30 this afternoon in the Arlington Street Church.

For today's bride hold the presidential reins of the Vincent Club two years ago, and proved herself a popular and capable leader. Miss Nichols, who is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Clinton Nichols of Commonwealth avenue, has spent much of her time abroad, and speaks French remarkably well. Last winter she and her mother had an apartment in Paris, I believe. Also in the gay French capital at the same time was Miss Nella Fiske, who is to be one of the bridesmaids at today's wedding.

Miss Ruth Paine will be the other bridesmaid, while Miss Susan Lawrence and Master Robert Gipsa Ervin, Jr. are to act as flower-girl and page. The groom, a Harvard '11 man, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cobb of Chestnut Hill, has chosen Robert C. Cobb as his best man. He has a representative group of young men serving as ushers, including among others Roger Griswold, who in June married Miss Penelope Parkman, last year's president of the Vincent Club. Following this afternoon's ceremonial, there will be a reception at the Marlboro street home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson, who are cousins of the bride.

SPEAKING OF weddings—many Autumn brides attempt to carry out the season's note in the costume of their attendants. Few are as successful in doing this as was Miss Theresa Perkins, whose marriage to Palmer Condit Putnam of New York drew such a fashionable throng to Brookline on Saturday.

The chiffon gown of the bridesmaid—there were all from out-of-town—shaded from pale yellow to deep orange, the decidedly Autumnal touch being added by the gilly-colored leaves which clung to their frocks as well as to their dark brown velvet hats.

And of weddings to come there is still plenty of chattering. One of the biggest "live, honor and obey" events of the year (future is the marriage) which will unite Miss Jane Norton Grew and James Waterhouse Angell. The bride-to-be, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waterhouse Grew, has elected to be married on the 19th of the month at St. Andrew's Church in Dover, where the Grews have a country place known as "Juniper Ridge." The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Angell of Yale and Mrs. James Rowland Angell.

MRS. LARZ ANDERSON is at home in Boston following a brief though enjoyable trip to New York, whither she went with her aunt and cousin, Mrs. Hamilton Perkins, and Mr. Charles F. Greenough, 2nd (Margaret Perkins). This winter the Andersons expect to spend most of their time in "Wild," their magnificent Brookline estate, which, of course, is good news to their host of friends in the Hub.

THREE SHIPS HELPLESS IN PACIFIC NEAR THE COAST

San Francisco, Oct. 9 (U.S.).—Bound to San Francisco from Tacoma with sixty passengers and a crew of fifty, the liner Kenmore was reported early today drifting helplessly 143 miles north of San Francisco. She was in no immediate danger. The Kenmore is a fast passenger liner and several tugs are heading to the scene. The motor ship Kennecott, 5,600 tons, also sent out an SOS, calling early today, reporting she had come on the rocks at Dixon's Entrance of Vancouver Island. The Kennecott failed to answer further radio signals, giving rise to fears she had been lost in the crash. The Kenmore was bound for Seattle. The passenger steamer Queen, which last night was reported near the point where the Kennecott was wrecked, was unable early today to move because of a cracked cylinder, she wirelessed. The Queen and she was anchored safely. She carries a crew of fifty-five and is believed to have comparatively few passengers.

TECH MAN NEAR DEATH ON TRIP INTO ARCTIC

New York, Oct. 8.—Thrilling experiences in the wilds of Spitzbergen, the uncharted waste of the Arctic, were related by Winthrop D. Gundry, graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who acted as surgeon for the Meridian College Arctic Expedition of Oxford.

Gundry arrived here on the S. S. Ordona. The party remained more than three months in Spitzbergen. Gundry declared his closest approach to death came on a hunt for reindeer when he sank in a sub-ice sheet similar to one which was deep in the stuff his feet came to the river bed of ice and he was saved.

The expedition found several islands and straits had been incorrectly mapped. Authorities tell of only one man who makes his claim to have been in the Arctic.

COX CALLS ON POLICE TO END CRIME WAVE

Governor Cox gave a luncheon to police chiefs in the Parker House today at which steps were taken to curb crimes which he termed "rampant throughout New England."

He asked that gun-toters be dealt with severely, suspicious persons run out of cities, habitual criminals heavily sentenced, dope dealers and usurers made examples of and steps taken generally to halt lawlessness.

Recent patrolmen shootings and murders prompted the Governor's call to the police chiefs of the State. The Chief Executive planned some kind of concerted action was reflected in the call shown by the police chiefs.

The Governor had issued his luncheon invitation and outlined a plan to curb crime waves.

Into court when a safe cracker was arrested in downtown Boston a few days ago, stepped Superintendent James J. Connelley. He said that the safe cracker's first court appearance was in years. District Attorney O'Brien has asked that men caught carrying concealed weapons be given a year in jail.

His request followed the shooting of a Roxbury patrolman by two thugs who shot without a remembrance of an excuse.

GERMANY NEAR DICTATORSHIP REGIME

Berlin, Oct. 8.—Having given Chancellor Stresemann a vote of confidence in the face of opposition by the Socialists, the Communists and the Bavarian People's party, the Reichstag today considered the measure that gives the government dictatorial powers in dealing with economic and financial problems. The bill was approved yesterday by the Reichstag's Imperial Council.

Chancellor Stresemann's victory in obtaining a vote of confidence was strengthened by the rejection of a resolution to amend the state emergency in the Reichstag and in Bavaria, and by the passage of a Reichstag resolution endorsing the government's constitutional attitude toward exceptional measures in Bavaria.

Drastic demands were made of the government today by the Ruhr industrialists headed by Hugo Stinnes, who requested General Dergovitz, the French commander-in-chief at Düsseldorf.

Authorities to continue negotiations with the occupation officials was one demand. Provision for longer working hours for German workers in the mines and above ground was another.

The industrialists also demanded compensation for the coal confiscated since the beginning of the Ruhr occupation and for the forcibly levied coal tax; the abolition of the coal tax for the Ruhr region; a guarantee that all future deliveries of reparations coal be placed in their hands; preferential treatment for the Ruhr in matters of raw materials and food stuffs.

CITY CHARTER 'GUARDS' BOMB CITY COUNCIL

The "Boston Charter Guards" changed the State House today and from there turned their heavy guns and bombs on the Boston City Council.

The opening of hearings to a special revision commission to consider changes in Boston city charter. The special commission was its creation to a petition from the "Guards" officially known as the Boston Charter Association.

Politicians were present. This may be noted, because Dr. Morton Prince, chairman of the association, and George H. McCaffery, secretary, went to some length in explaining that the association members are "not politicians."

"We are not reformers nor idealists nor interested in political office," said Dr. Prince. "Our purpose is to keep the Boston city charter unaltered by impossible amendments."

He declared that not so many changes in the charter itself were necessary, that the fault is not with the charter but with the persons of the City Council, which he said had degenerated since the war. He explained that the charter association was an outgrowth of a committee of 100 of 1909 and was responsible for its present charter. A boost for the commission and several boasts for the Charter Association were given by secretary McCaffery.

Good News! Lower Prices on RUGS!

Rushed Here by Express from the Big New York Auction

It has been two or three years since Alexander Smith & Sons, world's largest rug makers, have been able to manufacture enough stock ahead of the demand to hold their semi-annual rug auctions in New York. This year they have done so. Our representative was on the spot and found considerably lower prices than for many months past. Consequently we bought heavily and expressed these rugs back to Boston at once.

We have a wonderful assortment ready for you. The new 1924 patterns and color blendings are more attractive than ever. As to quality, it is our experience that Smith's rugs always give complete satisfaction. We believe it is sound advice to encourage those who need rugs to purchase them now.

"RADIO GIRLS" BROADCAST JOLLY

The Gayety Theatre stage is a big amplifier this week of fun, music and melody sent out in lively waves by "The Radio Girls." Bly Gilbert, the featured comedienne and her supporting company offered a bewildering variety of entertainment to make line and evening audiences yesterday. Their show is a combination of burlesque, vaudeville, extravaganza and musical comedy. It is well staged and beautifully costumed.

If your heart is of the susceptible kind, watch out. There are pirates all over the stage. "Have pirates," who steal away the heart without pity. These "whisking" buccanneries are chorus girls, members of the dancing crew of the pirate ship "Pearlites." They have to have pirates because the story deals with the "Isle O' Adventure" where the pirate chief has his treasure cache and where fantastic adventures take place, all to tinsel melodies with no end of dancing and specialties.

The company assisting Mr. Gilbert includes clever principals. Hazel Atger sang delightfully and Pauline Glenmarr satirized and danced with equal art. Emma Wilson, the ingenue, charmed with her personality and talent.

The Marks boys (Bert and Lou) Wilney J. Pace and Billy Wilson had important roles and helped Gilbert keep the fun at fast pace.

role of Marcelle in the Jules Robert Goodman melodrama, "The Man Who Came Back." Miss MacDonald's soft, indolent impression by her remarkable portrayal of the pathetic figure of the stirring drama. Moreover, she proved a welcome addition to the Somerville Players and added the privilege to be cast as one of the most competent stock companies of the country. Several other new members made their appearance last evening, notably Bernard Nodell, engaged as leading man, who appeared in the role of Henry Potter, the spiritist son of a Wall Street broker.

"Is Your Hair As Thick And Fluffy As It Used To Be?"

If it isn't, your friends have no doubt already noticed it, for nothing is harder to hide than thin scraggly-looking hair.

Why Not Begin Today To Save And Beautify Your Hair?

First give it a thorough washing followed by an application of Newbro's Herpicide. If the hair is falling badly do not rub too vigorously until Herpicide has had a chance to strengthen the hair and scalp. Herpicide applications should be continued daily until all dandruff disappears and until the hair begins to regain its natural beauty. Then to keep the hair soft, lustrous, and fluffy they should be continued two or three times weekly.

For an interesting booklet upon "The Care Of The Hair," together with a small trial bottle of Herpicide, mail ten cents in stamps or coin to The Herpicide Company, Dept. 60, Detroit, Michigan.

"FATTY," IN HUB, KIPLING DRAMA ASKS PUBLIC VERDICT

In his first appearance in Boston since he was tried and acquitted of the murder of Virginia Rappe, film actor, in San Francisco, Roscoe Arbuckle is making the last of his personal appeals for public favor here in Boston. Soon he is to return to Hollywood to complete the last two of a series of a series of several two-reel comedies which he is directing for a large producing company.

"I may never return to the films as an actor," he said today. "It was my desire to put my case personally before the theatre-going public. 'Two Juries failed to find that I was guilty of the terrible crime charged to me. I owed my place in the movie world to the public. I was killed down because of exaggerated stories of my personal life and habits and I am the victim of vicious propaganda, that breeds world-wide during the trial of the case. 'I am here to show Bostonians that I am a gentleman—an ordinary harmless individual with a small fortune of brains, very little money. I want you to put the remaining residue of my name.' Arbuckle told his hearers.

"LOVE" INJUNCTION WIFE SEEKS SON

Lawrence, Oct. 9.—Local police were asked by Mrs. Dunn Dunn of Providence street to assist her in securing possession of her thirteen-year-old son, Marcus, whom she stated had apparently been taken away by her husband, Charles W. Dunn. The woman was informed that the police are powerless to act, since no crime has been committed.

Mrs. Dunn recently sought a court injunction to restrain her husband from leaving the house or spending money upon Miss Ouida Delome, local telephone operator. Neither the boy nor his father have been seen since Saturday.

LOVE OF FAMILY MADE KOURI KILL SELF

"Love drove my husband to kill himself. He couldn't support us as he wished and he couldn't bear the thought that we would suffer."

That was the explanation given by Mrs. Elias Kouri, young Dorchester wife, whose husband shot himself through the head in the presence of his little family.

Mrs. Kouri and her husband were formerly professional dancers. Their sixth wedding anniversary comes in a few days, at the court house, Dorchester, the grief-stricken widow declared.

"My husband had business troubles for some time. He hated to see us deprived of the comforts and luxuries that other families had. He really worked himself to death for us."

"His fruit business failed. All the while, our expenses kept increasing. Our three babies were growing up and we were getting poorer all the time."

"There was no quarrel between us. He was the kindest and most affectionate of husbands. Only last Sunday, he had me in his arms and told me how much he loved me."

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions USE DELATONE

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, untailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs with some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 5 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the delatone in its original package and mix fresh as wanted.

GREAT VARIETY IN KEITH PROGRAM

One of the best all around bills presented at Keith's for months is offered this week. Henry Santry, with his Symphonic Orchestra, was given a tremendous ovation, and his "Children of Jazz" certainly proved they have lifted the art of syncopation to the highest degree of intricacy. Harry and Anna Baymour, who offer "breezy bits of mirth and melody" offer a series of new jokes, a delightful change from ancient wheezes.

Yvette Ruget, prima donna, who possesses a splendid voice, was applauded for her interpretations of old songs, while Hickey and Green's "World of Makebelieve," presents a fantastic number of vaudeville sketches, starring Nils Clair.

Jay Brenan and Stanley Rogers keep the audience in roars of laughter and the same can be said of Emmet O'Leary and Elsie Lange whose "Potpourri of Unique Specialties" was a morsel of mirth. Lew and Paul Mardock and Sorbel and Mortens complete the well-balanced program.

U. S. ARMY SECRET RADIO SET IS REVEALED AT EXPOSITION

COMBINATION SENDER AND RECEIVER IS PORTABLE

By A. B. HOAG,
Radio Editor.

New York, Oct. 9.—A new army French radio set embodying many remarkable engineering feats is exhibited for the first time at the big show of the American Radio Exposition in the Grand Central Palace.

The new set is both transmitter and receiver, and is designed for front line work. Complete with storage batteries and collapsible loop antenna, the entire outfit weighs only fifty pounds, and is easily carried by one man.

Army engineers have perfected an absolutely directional loop, made of small loops (using which radio compass). No signals are transmitted which can be heard by the enemy.

WORKS ON 15 METERS. The set works on a very low wave length—around seventy-five meters, a wave band which is just beginning to be developed.

Attracting almost equal attention is a trench set captured from the Germans at Chateau Thierry. This set is much heavier and sturdier than the American set, although it is very similar in other respects to the American set used during the war.

The one on exhibition was made near the end of the war when German engineers had been working most to the vanishing point. The set is contained in a tin, and is a good quality hard rubber.

A new Zenith set, similar to the receiver carried by the Macmillan North Pole expedition, is unusual, in that it uses three stages of cascaded audio-frequency. The engineers of the company declare that the successful operation of the third stage depends on the layout of the apparatus rather than on any special hook-up.

PORTABLE LOUD SPEAKERS. Several of the big manufacturers of radio sets have shown a decided preference for speakers with loudness in place of the usual bell-shaped coils.

The speaker type has been adopted by the Zenith company in their new receiver. Variable coupling is obtained by mounting one coil on a shaft which may be moved forward and back by a small knob on the panel.

The first portable loud-speaker is exhibited by the Amplex company. A case about the size used by physicians contains the phone unit and the body of the speaker.

The largest radio loud speaker is shown by the same company. This is a special public assembly horn with two phone units and is said to make noise enough to fill the largest hall.

COOLIDGE BARS 4 DEAD IN FIRE; JOB HUNTERS OF BAY STATE

Washington, Oct. 9.—Massachusetts men who came here looking for jobs under President Coolidge are doomed to go back disappointed. President Coolidge has decided to give them no more jobs, big or little, for the present, at least.

Neither Senator Lodge nor William Brewster could have the ambassadorship to Great Britain, if he wanted it. Neither wants it. The same goes for former Congressman Charles C. Washburn, friend of the last four Republican presidents, who has been at the White House a few days.

President Coolidge is desirous of avoiding any further display of sectional feeling which has resulted from the prominence of himself, Senator Lodge, Secretary of War Weeks, Speaker Gillet and many other big names. Republicanism has been in positions of influence and prominence.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

What kind of men are in the greatest demand in 1933? I mean the men who are in the greatest demand in the business world.

I have seen this little incident: I got off the elevator in the morning and saw a man in a three-piece suit, who was the leading partner in this great international banking house. Three office boys were waiting on him, one of them jumped up and was waiting for him at the door. He was waiting for him at the door. He was waiting for him at the door.

INDUSTRIALS ARE MOST ACTIVE GROUP AND GENERALLY OFF AS MARKET WEAKENS

Industrial stocks were the most active group and generally off as prices weakened in the New York stock market today. American Western dropped fractionally to a new low for the year. American 1st dropped nearly 5 points to a new 1933 low.

How the Ancient Spartan Code Made a Modern Child Champion

Helen Wills, Champion Tennis Player. Her Latest Pictures as a Freshman This Fall at California University.

A Quick Pickup of an Opponent's Hot Return.

Miss Wills Is a Flash at the Net.

The Spartan Girl as Conceived by Allan Clark in His Famous Statue.

ENGLAND boasts that the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton. And Mrs. Clarence Wills says the woman's tennis championship of America was won, not on the courts of Forest Hills, but in the nursery, dining-room and backyard of a California bungalow.

Mrs. Wills is the mother of seventeen-year-old Helen Wills, California's child marvel who defeated Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory in two straight sets at the last National Women's Tennis Tournament, thereby wresting from Mrs. Mallory the crown she had worn for seven years. Experts will tell you Helen Wills triumphed because of her cannon-ball serve, her dazzling volleys, her other tricky strokes. But Mrs. Wills shakes her head and smiles. Helen won, she says, because she had been living by a code ever since she could walk—a code two thousand years old.

"Live simply, think clearly, be brave," Mrs. Wills told Helen. And Spartan boys grew up to be like the famous three hundred of Leonidas who held the pass at Thermopylae against the Persian host until the last man perished.

"Live simply, think clearly, be brave," Dr. and Mrs. Wills told Helen. And Helen, before she grew up, became a champion.

Spartan children ate little meat. Vegetables, grains and pasta's milk were their principal items of diet. Fruits, nuts and olives were allowed, but few sweets. Sundown was bedtime for the Spartan child. All his games were played out-of-doors; the enclosed gymnasium was unknown to the Spartans. Grit was their watchword. Every reader of history knows the story of the Spartan boy who allowed a fox to gnaw his vitals while he refused to cry out.

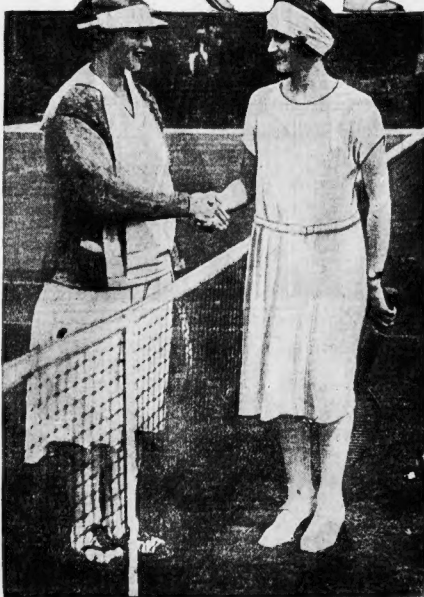

The code by which Helen Wills was reared parallels the Spartan code in almost every particular. Though she is a modern girl, living in the up-to-date city of Berkeley, just graduated from high school and now entering California University, her life has been as simple, clean and vigorous as that of some daughter of Greece competing in the first Olympic Games.

Helen's father is a leading Pacific Coast surgeon. When Helen was only two, he and Mrs. Wills mapped out a so-called plan of life for their child. It was not bizarre or radical. Many of its rules are the old common-sense rules of the copy-books. They did not dream in the beginning of making her a champion of anything. They simply wanted their daughter to be one hundred per cent healthy. And she is.

Helen Wills eats very little meat. Hers is a vegetable-cereal-and-milk diet. She is fond of fruits, nuts and olives. She is also fond of candy. But, with the exception of an occasional lemon lollipop, she has not been allowed to touch sweets since.

Her bedtime since she was a little girl has been ten o'clock. Even when she began to put up her back hair and to let down her dress, this did not vary. There was a big dance at Forest Hills on the eve of the championship match. Helen begged to be allowed to stay up "just for a little while." The elite of sport and society was to attend, and she, as the star contestant for Mrs. Mallory's crown, would have been the belle of the ball.

"No, indeed!" said Mrs. Wills to her plea. "Bedtime's ten o'clock. It makes no difference if the Prince of Wales is to be there."

And so, when Helen Wills took the court next day and began to batter over her fast ones, she played with nine hours' sound sleep sparkling in her eyes and strengthening her arm.

Outdoor exercise, the basis of the Spartan code, is likewise the basis of Helen Wills' training. She declares that, if she had her way, she would close up every child's gymnasium in the country and put the children to playing outdoor games exclusively.

There was a time when Helen donned a middie blouse and knickers, went to the "gym" and swung Indian clubs and dumbbells. But she hated it. When she protested to her father and mother, they told her at first to be patient, for they believed the regularity of gymnasium games. But finally they yielded to her wishes.

Dr. Wills had a tennis court built in his backyard. He himself was an enthusiastic player. Every afternoon he would come home from the office and have a set with Helen before dinner. That was when Helen was twelve. She "stayed" for play with her father. Very soon she was his game after game. The champion was budding in the school girl, and the gymnasium exercises were discontinued.

"From that time on, I never played any other sport," says Helen Wills. "Basketball and hockey never appealed to me strongly. I like to swim, but dad kept urging me to play tennis."

Her Forehand Strokes Are Deadly.

year she was runner-up in the National finals, losing to Mrs. Marbury by only two strokes.

This year her victory was overwhelming. She set the pace from the start and before the first set was over, the tremendous gallery knew that "the queen was dead" and was shouting, "Long live the queen!" The match and the title went to Miss Wills, 6-2, 6-1.

So I went to Oakland and it was there I met the cream of the California stars—Johnston, McLaughlin, Griffin, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Mario Wagner and the Kinsey boys.

"I would watch them. Just watching taught me a lot. Then my game began to get better. Occasionally I played with and against the stars. Before long I was beating many of the best women players on the Coast."

Two years ago Helen Wills, then only fifteen, was sent East by the California Lawn Tennis Association. Pretty, petite, shy and modest, with two big braids down her back, she was called "the pigtail child champion" by the sporting writers.

She distinguished herself that year by winning the girls' title. The following

Medbury Says

STATISTICS show that the cost of courtship in the country is much lower than in a big city. A romantic man who lives in a small city can save a lot of money, especially if he's a woman-hater.

ONE guy who lived in a little village figured that the total expense of his last courtship cost him exactly a dime. Five cents came out to his girl's house to propose to her, and a nickel to ride back after she refused him.

HE was going to take her some candy, but she'd just had a birthday and it was a long way to Christmas.

OF course, whenever he found a girl he liked, he was a spend-thrift. He used to take her downtown and let her stand in the doorway of a confectionery store.

HE'D let her go the limit and inhale as much candy as she wanted.

BUT the last girl was mean enough to ask him to buy her a box of it, so he had to give her the air.

IN New York or Chicago you take your sweetheart a bouquet of American beauty roses every time you call on her, but the only time a one-horse-town Romeo takes his girl a bunch of flowers is when somebody in her family dies.

IT'S impossible for a country chap to spend a lot of money, no matter how much his fiancée has with her.

OF course, small town girls like candy, flowers, ice cream and showers, the same as city snobs, but the men in the villages have got them trained to go without them.

ONE fellow bought his girl a coronation the day that the armistice was signed, and she expected one every Christmas.

SHARE YOUR HOLIDAYS WITH YOUR FAMILY. MR. MAR-

RIED MAN

Mr. Mar-Mari are you not selfish about how you spend holidays?

You figure on some line of enjoyment that interests you, but which is not enjoyed by the other members of your family.

Do you think it is right for you to go away early in the morning and stay away with a crowd of men, returning to your family late in the day too tired to go out with them or even to be sociable?

Of course you are right, and you feel that you deserve a day once in a while that you may do as you please.

But in it square to your family to leave them alone all day on occasions when they might join you in having a little pleasure together?

Your family has a right to expect at least half a day with you when you can all be together in some sort of diversion.

One evening while helping to entertain a company of young people at the home of a gentleman friend, we were changing photograph records when, during the silence, I asked in a voice heard all over the quiet room, "Charlie, have you got The Sweetest Girl in Dixie?" meaning, of course, the song. In the laugh that followed I realized how my question sounded to the company and felt embarrassed.
